

Less pain.
More living.

Freedom[®] stimulators

Curonix offers two types of neurostimulator systems. Both the Peripheral Nerve Stimulator (PNS) and Spinal Cord Stimulator (SCS) relieve pain by sending electrical stimulation to specific nerve locations where the pain is present and then blocks those pain signals from reaching the brain. The PNS System treats chronic intractable pain by targeting individual peripheral nerves below the neck, while the SCS System is used to treat chronic intractable pain associated with your back and legs.

CURONIX

1310 Park Central Boulevard South
Pompano Beach, Florida 33064
800-965-5134 | curonix.com

Individual results may vary. Curonix LLC is a manufacturer of medical devices and does not practice medicine. Only a physician can determine what treatment is appropriate. The contents of this document do not constitute medical, legal, or any other type of professional advice. For more information on risks, warnings, and possible adverse side effects please speak with your doctor directly. For further product safety information refer to curonix.com.

©2023 Curonix LLC

REC-11-84-REV.1

Freedom from chronic pain

PNS | SCS

CURONIX

Is Curonix right for you?

Freedom® stimulators offer:

FDA cleared systems for chronic intractable pain

Target pain relief below the neck

A non-drug, long-term therapy option

Reduced risk of complications typically associated with implantable battery systems

Minimally-invasive technology

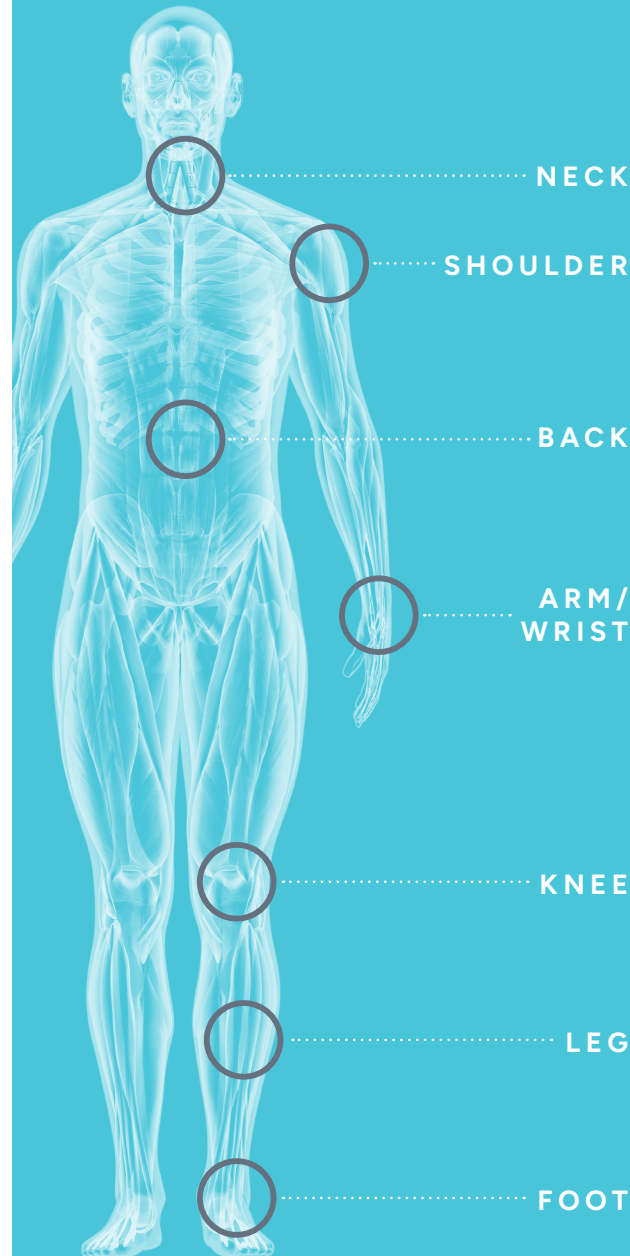

Outpatient procedure

Neurostimulator systems that are full-body 3T and 1.5T MRI Conditional*

*For full MRI conditions and product safety information, please see Instructions for Use or visit curonix.com

Targeted pain relief

CURONIX

Next steps for chronic pain relief

Meet with your physician to determine if you are a candidate for a Freedom PNS or SCS System.

You decide if Curonix is right for you during your trial period before the device is permanently placed. The goal is to reduce your pain and improve your overall quality of life.

You are in control of your chronic pain relief. Your handheld transmitter allows you to personalize your therapy.

CURONIX PROVIDES THE FREEDOM TO RETURN TO LIFE!

Working better together.

Patients

Physicians

CURONIX